What is an Educational Psychologist?
I am someone who visits schools to work with teachers, parents and pupils. I try to help people think of ways to make school a better place to learn.

Why are you here?
I am here because the school, your parents/carers, or you have asked for some help to make things better in school.

What can you do for me?
I can think of ways to help make things better for you in school. You may want help with things like learning, behaviour, making friends or discussing something that is upsetting you.

Where will you visit me?
I can come to your classroom to see how you work, have a chat or do some activities together. I may also meet with other people in your life.

What happens next?
After we meet together, everyone involved will come up with a plan to try to make things better. We may meet again in the future to see if this plan has been helpful.
